

Grande Worm Farm

SET UP INSTRUCTIONS

Your Grande comes fully assembled however, there are a few things to do to finalise the setup before your worms arrive

CHOOSE LOCATION

Ensure you have selected a fully shaded location for your Grande to be positioned.

GRANDE ARRIVAL

STEP 1: PALLET REMOVAL

The Grande has been secured to the pallet for safety during freight. To release from the pallet, unscrew the 'L-Brackets' at the base of the Grande feet using a spanner, shifter or drill hex head.

STEP 2: LEVELLING

The Grande's feet are adjustable. Take the weight off of the foot and screw in or out to lower and raise. Adjust the feet to create a slight tilt forward to allow all of the leachate to drain out of the front tap.

STEP 3: STRUCTURE

Remove straw bale and cocopeat blocks. Place a layer of cardboard over the strut floor to provide some initial structure to your worm farm. Moisten cardboard with a hose or watering can and then spread straw evenly over the cardboard.

STEP 4: BEDDING

Re-hydrate the cocopeat blocks in a wheelbarrow or large tub. Make sure it is all well moistened but not sloppy - a fluffy consistency is best. This can be achieved by adding a few litres of water at a time, allowing the block to absorb the water bit by bit.

To test for correct moisture - squeeze a handful of bedding hard and 1-2 drops of water should flow out from the bottom of your hand. Transfer into your Grande, on top of the straw. This acts as bedding for when your worms arrive.

STEP 5: HANDLES

The handle for the lid and the handle for the cast access door have been temporarily installed inside to protect them during freighting. Simply unscrew the two screws holding each handle in place, and install the handles on the outside of the Grande. Ensure the screws and washers are tightened firmly.

If you have ordered worms, please contact the Worms Downunder office to confirm you are now ready to receive your delivery.

More useful information including comprehensive FAQs can be found on our website.